

Plan smarter together

CoLab is a resource management and urban planning consultancy with over 100 years' combined experience across New Zealand. We specialise in cutting through complexity to deliver practical planning solutions that actually work.

We offer a range of planning services, including district and regional plan development, resource consents, strategic planning and policy, and more. Our clients include local government, not-for-profit organisations, and the private sector.

Let our experienced planners work with you to scope, prepare, and present plans and applications under the RMA at all levels, from councils to the courts.
